Heya, I really need help with this one girl that I met yesterday for the first time. Everything went smoothly, we were driving around town talking about all sorts of things, laughing and etc, we even had a casual walk down town, and then after an hour or two we went to her place to watch "seinfeld"..

Anyway, we started to cuddle and then kissing etc, and I kind of begun to touching her, she said that it's not allowed so I stopped I did tease a bit, but now I'm wondering if what I did was really wrong, because I left few min later and now she hardly talks on msn

I called her today but no response, I'm feeling bit blue, like every time I manage to * up. I dunno what's going on to be honest, any girl here that has insight on this matter?

Any help is appreciated, thanks in advance.

There may be many options. This all depends on her and if she likes surprises. Bring her to some romantic place, stand on your knee and present her a ring. What could be more romantic?

alright gang, i'm a freshman at college- strait out of highschool, and in my first week i found the girl of my dreams. Funny, smart, whitty, and absolutly gorgeous. and from beyond my wildest fantasies, she actualy enjoyed spending time with me. we travelled the town, going to shopping centers and what not, and ended up at a park, where (with my heart unpleasantly in my throat) i asked her if she would like to go fishing on monday (yesterday) and to my great astonishment and releif she said yes! then on saturday she asked me if i would like to go to her parents camp and meet her family on sunday, they day before our planned fishing trip. and i accepted. so i whent and met her family, got the shit scarred out of me by her father, laughed as her family friends slowly got drunker and drunger, graciously took all the jeers her family members shot at me, and eventually we left around midnight, and she drove me home now pause for a moment, because this, i think, is perhaps the begining of my problems, and there is a bit of background info i would like you guys to understand first.

first off, i am one of the most socialy akward teens you will ever have had the missfortune to have come across. my parents, due to their jobs, forced me to move every 2 or 3 years, thus i never formed a core of friends in a home town, i never learnt how to be popular, i dont have a place that i can call a home town- when people ask me where im from i shrug and say "i was born in elliot lake, other then that, im from everywhere." so because of my many and frequent moves a became something of an outcast, worsenin over the years, and repeated moves to the point where i was a lonner by nature, i had lost the ability/knowledge of how to make friends, which i never rea/y had in the first place. my second lastmove brought me to a city called thunder bay, where i regained some of my interpersonal/social skills and in my second ear in the town i had a nice solid core of friends i relyed on and trusted, and i had a steady girlfriend. for the first time in my life i was something close to popular, and i enjoyed it. but all good things die quick, on sept. the 18th, 2009, my parents delivered to me the bomb shell that i was moving again.after much raging at my parents and at the cruelty of the world, i took up my residence in my new town, and had a complete relaps in my ways. i didnt even make the slightest effort to make friends once i got to my new town. i avoided people, i despised them because they where happy and had friends. i shot down all attempts by others to make friends with me and spent each day in in a sort of volentary solitary confinement, untill my graduation day. i didnt go to my graduation cerimony (to my parents great disapointment) i just grabed my deploma at the front desk and continued on my way. now i had college to deal with, by this time i was convinced that it was impossable for me to make friends due to conditioning over the years (which i blamed solely on my parents) but at the same time i forced my self to promis that once i got to college i would atleast attempmt to make friends. which brings us to where we are now. also, understand this, that the type of "dating" that i am used to is "hey will you go out with me?" "yeah." *now i am in a relationship*. this whole dating scene is 100% new to me, i have just about the same ammount of experiance at it as pig have experiance of flying.

Back to the present day (sunday evening, or early monday morning dependant on how you look at it) this girl is talking to me while she drives me home, we are disscussing her family. she blurts out "well my dad always wanted me to hook up with a northern boy, so you've got that to your advantage". soon she drops me off at my apartment. for some time durring the ride, i have been thinking that perhaps she might expect me to kiss her when we parted or something, so at the point of departure, i turned and looked at her, looking for evident signs that she wanted me to kiss her, and when i received none, i said goodnight and left without a second glance back like a damned fool and idiot. this, i beleive, is my first and worst mistake.

mondy dawns, as bad a day as you could possably imagin- rainy and cold. thus the fishing trip is postponed. in the afternoon it clears up a little so i decided i would walk to the lake we had planned to got fishing at, by my self, to see how long it would take me. when i arive there, i texther to tell her that it took me exactly 1hr 25min to walk to the lake. (this i beleive is my second mistake). i get a very short answer back, and it seams clear that she dosnt want to talk to me, so being perfectly atuned to solitude, i do not try to promote further conversation with her (a third mistake, i beleive). today, i go to college and we sit with eachother, but we talk very little- i try several times to make very forced conversation, but these are quickly shot down by her short responses. I get the distinct impression that she doesn't want to talk to me, and that she is even trying to avoid me. Later that day, we have a 2hr break, which we spend in near silence in the cafeteria. We are joined by another student from our course and she and him talk together quite cheerfully. I try very hard at this point to stop myself doing one or all of three things: 1: raging at the pair of them 2: assaulting the other guy 3: getting up and leaving and spending the rest of the day in my natural confer zone of solitude. I really want a relationship with this girl, she is everything I've ever wanted and then some. Please, I'm desperate, a guy like me never gets a chance with a girl like her, I don't understand these things, I don't know what I did wrong nor do I know how to rectify whatever it is that I've done. I'm begging you please, if you know anything that may help, advise me!

tomorrow, I plan to confront her about it, asking her what I have done to upset her. This may not be a wise course of action, but it is the logical one, and logic is something I understand.

Ok this girl I have been talking to and like a lot have agreed we can not be together until I am done with college so I can go see her (long distance) but we are EXTREMELY close and we were talking last night and she was really down and then we got to talking about family and figures she has depression and I am ok with that and later she started calling herself a "slut, whore, ect." and I replied you are not, you are a great person I love talking to you you make me so happy ect. and she said that she was no matter what I said You are not please listen to me and I am here for you please tell me what is wrong. She then said she has touched another guys... package...and then she said I love you. I replied back that it is ok we agreed we can't be together for a while and we both will need to be with "real" people but when the time comes time we can be together and then she messaged me: I am a slut no matter what and got off.

I emailed her an "cheer up" ecard and I keep on messaging her telling her I am here for you please talk to me, I love her, ect.

and she said we can talk later today...I love you so much.

Notes: She is very emotional she speaks how she feels. it is her time of the month so that may be a big part of it and she gets bummed out easy.

I do not know what to do she is very sensitive she may have an guy and is feeling really guilty but I do not think that is it, she seems to be depressed.

Just a little advice. any will be good lol

Ok, so I'm 21 I'll say this right now, the girl is 22 I hadn't been on a date in years, just lost about 100+ pounds and getting back into things. I met her on a dating site, little did I read that she wanted to date but didn't want anything serious. I found this out on the night we went out, and it came like a dagger to the heart but I went along anyway.

So here's how it went... drove 120 miles met up with her. We proceeded to drive around and talk about just random things, later on we got out and walked around and chat it was probably just a little after dark at the time. Everything was very romantic, including all the places we seen around the downtown area such as the lights on the trees, the water fountains(not the drinking kind..) etc etc. It was a cool night, I can't recall everything we talked about. But I got to the point that I asked her what had happened in her previous relationship to make it end. And she told me something along the lines of "he was a douche bag, I got bored of him, and he chose pot over me" and I pulled a line out like always and told her I would easily chose her over pot... She also told me she has commitment issues. At that point in time about 30 red flags sprouted up. So we went on and somehow I totally said the wrong thing and I'm like "well I guess we could go back to your car and mess around" and I didn't mean that in a bad way at all, and she was like "whoa" and just stopped walking. I apologized like ten times and I told her I just meant talk, because I'm definitely not that kind of guy. So I guess we talked about different things and asked questions for a while, I even told her I didn't have any luck with girls which she found that hard to believe. People kept calling my phone and I just shut it off, even told my buddy I was in the middle of something and he'd have to call me back later. This girl was a definite ten, nothing else mattered but her. I recall at one point in time some guy walked by us and looked at her and it looked like a smart remark he made and I turned around and said to him "what the F did you say?!" not purposely it was like a reaction. She was like "wow overprotective much" and I told her I didn't know what came over me. So we walked on and eventually rode on some stage coaches in town for a small fee, it was very enjoyable. I recall telling her my hands were freezing, because they were and she offered to "warm them up". Later on in the ride I told her if she was cold she could scoot over next to me, and she told me the same so I did. I actually put my feet up in the seat across from me and felt like I was in heaven. When we got off I told her my hand was still cold, and she started holding my hand and we made our way back to her car. At some point in time on the way back we ended up hugging/cuddling I guess and looking at some stars, which i joked and told her they were satellites, eventually I told her she wins by default so she had nothing to worry about. So we go out and get something to eat, head back to her town house, I meet up with her roommates who are all heading off to a gay bar in town, so it would just be me and her. She decides she wants to watch a movie, by this time we were doing more than hugging, we were making out, she told me "you're not supposed to kiss on a first date", and I told her "rules are made to be broken" so we pretty much had no trouble making out from then on. Anyway.. we put on a movie, she fell asleep, cuddled up with me. Next thing I know her roommates get back and she asks them if I can stay the night, they all agree. And she told me even if they didn't she wouldn't have thrown me out. So she goes up to bed and I crash on the couch. Next morning I wake up when she walks in the room with a book in her hand.. and we head out to breakfast, which she pays for when I went to the wc, I think at this point in time she told me I had piercing eyes, which I took as an insult. She told me it was like I could see into her soul, and I wasn't just looking at her, and she would hide her eyes from time to time until we left the restaraunt, but anyway she paid for the tab when I wasn't paying attention, told me that I paid for everything else she needed to pay for something. We got to her car made out some more, and decided to catch a flick later in the day, so we get to the theatre and she tells me she doesn't like to cuddle during films, but we ended up holding hands anyway. I don't think there was ever a time when she came up to me and held my hand, or wanted to make out with me, but she didn't object when I did. Maybe that's just how girls are. So after the film we get in the car and she says "well I gotta go now, after the movie you leave that was the deal" she had stuff she had to do around the house she told me and also she had to read something for work. Ironically a song came on the radio in her car with some lyrics like "let him stay" lol! Which I pointed out that it was clearly a subliminal message. So on the way back she looked at me and smiled, and told me I was cute and she thought she would keep me. I asked her if I could see her next weekend, and she said if she wasn't working she would like that. We made out some more and I left. I texted her a few times telling her what a great weekend I had, and basically I was so happy I was almost in tears. So I didn't call her today but she got on Facebook and I asked her how it was going, she said she was in a blah mood.. and I told her she was to awesome to be in a blah mood. Then I asked her if I came up on Sunday(which is currently her only day off) I would show her how to ride the motorbike, and she was like "I'm probably working sunday, I told you that, if not I would love that". So I told her i missed her today and she said she missed me too. Then basically said she was going to bed and got off..

So what do you guys make of this. This girl works from like 8am until 6pm monday through saturday. sometimes sunday even. I like this girl a lot, but she doesn't want anything serious and has committment issues. Is it odd that she never like came up to me and kissed me, or anything? Should I pursue this further, and play on her terms? Do you think she cares about me? Appreciate any tips.

Thanks!

In the past few months, a friend I have known for about a year and I have really connected. I have had feelings for him in the past, but because there were difficult circumstances, I never made those feelings apparent. But because we have been talking a lot more in the past few months, both of us had expressed mutual feelings for each other. I was very hesitant at first to get closer to him since I have had several situations in the past where I have been led in circles and strung along with no commitment, only to be told "things aren't working out". So naturally I am untrusting of any guys intentions unless he is to prove himself to me. Yet, this is something I can really see working out, with some effort because we both click so well.

The main problem is, we live a few hours away. Yet he still calls every day and we can talk for hours about anything. And he asks about my day, when we'll get to see each other next, etc. The way we talk to each other it feels like I am in a relationship. But as of now there is no title. I don't know where this is exactly going, and I dont know how to approach the question without making anything awkward... I would hate to not give it a try, and i don't know where he stands on this. What is the best approach to this issue? Thank you for your help .

After reading your story, i think she also likes you, just from a woman's viewpoint.

For a girl, if she does not like a man at all, she will not accpet anything from him and just refuse you. But she did not refuse, right?

The reason you feel she is not so positive is because that girls are somewhat restrained but i believe as times goes on, she will become more open and positive!

Good Luck!

Hi,

I really understood your problem. I do not feel age is a problem in love. Your story shows that she loves you. You convince her that being a life partner understanding is main factor which you have but age gap is not a factor. All the best.

Sometimes girls are awkward if their BF is younger than them. But for me if you really like her you should continue courting her and prove to her that age will not be a problem in a relationship. She might think that you are younger and you don't know yet how to handle a relationship (sometimes we think that way). In your situation, you must do prove to her that you like her and don't give up. Goodluck!

There no such perfect relationship. If you really love your boyfriend despite of being unfaithful to you, still you need to accept the reality. You should accept the baby also because it's a part of him. Loving someone is accepting everything about him. I know it's not easy but then you need to.

Don't hate the baby it's not his/her fault being born in this world. You should be open to your boyfriend also about what you feel. Ask time for you to accept his child. Forgive him so you can move on from the mistakes he did.

Maybe the girl realize that it's too soon to do that kind of stuff and she felt shy about it. Just find a way to talk to her or apologize for being so passionate. Just tell her that's your way of showing you care for her.

The thing about online dating is, most of the new dating sites on the Internet now free or paid. Think that just because you have to compete with all of the other well known name dating sites. You have to buy or purchase fake profiles, that is 100% unfair to the members who sign up for their service especially for a paid service. For example I do reviews on dating sites to see which one's are fake. If you have never heard of a dating site especially if it isn't free then if they have millions of members, they don't offer trial service or they need your credit card then it's more than likely fake profiles. On the other hand if they offer a trial service, it's 100% free or they don't have millions of users then you can believe that site is 100% authentic with its members. Remember dating sites that say they have millions chances are you have heard of it before, but if you have not but like the name and what you see but they do not have a lot of members then those are the sites that will have real profiles and the best chances for you to meet someone. The two newest online dating sites I have researched are FaithFulMeeting

Dating Cafe Lounge

Both are 100% Free they are very new so they have real profiles, but the best thing about these two new sites you keep your page position no matter how many people sign up after you. If its a million people who sign up after you and when you signed up you where 2nd, then that's where you will remain until you unregister.

hi there! i think the girl likes you (she wouldn't say she misses you anyway if not,right)but maybe (just MAYBE) she's been into a traumatic experience to her last relationship that ended her thinking not to get anything serious about the next to come.. if you are really serious about her you have to prove it to her .. all she needs is a man that will make her think that not all men are the same (i just thought it so) the fact that you end up with the thought of spending the rest of your life with her is romantic alone.. but as what you have asked on how to make it extra romantic , i think it should be done unexpectedly.to a time that she have no idea that you will propose to her.. make the proposal a very YOU. got my point? include things that will make her remember of the first time you met up to the time that you thought of marrying her hi there!

i think if you really cant accept the baby,let go of the relationship. for it is not healthy to come up with the same old issue again and again .. but if you really love him accept the fact that people do make mistakes .. (and the baby is the most innocent in the whole issue) hard at first but you really have to forgive and forget ..that is if you want to be in that relationship still ..

good luck..

Well in high school it is kind of tough. When you're 21 and older people don't care about that anymore. Like when you're 25 and he's 23 it doesn't matter but in high school it can be tricky because now we're talkin senior dating a sophmore and you know how you teenagers can be.....you're peers can be just plain mean! So think about it for a long hard while, you may want to keep him in the friend zone for a while.

Hi Everyone

I am conducting a research project for the University of Sussex into gendered attitudes towards sex and relationships. The aim of my study is to identify whether or not there are significant differences in sexual desire between men and women, and if so what the nature of these differences is and what implications this might have.

Over the next month I will be conducting interviews online to gather data on this topic and I am posting here to see if anyone would like to take part in these interviews. These interviews will last between 20 and 45 minutes; carried out either by email or instant message (your choice) and at a time to suit you. I will only interview you about your attitudes and beliefs towards sexuality and relationships; there will be no questions on your sexual history or practices. Data from these interviews will be saved and may be featured in publications, however the identities of respondents will be kept strictly confidential.

This is an opportunity to really further our understanding of an element of humanity so central to our modern lives and one that is often neglected. It is obviously your choice to take part and no names or online identities will be referred to in the write up.

If you would like to take part or have any questions about the study please contact me by personal message or email: jf258@sussex.ac.uk.

Thank you for reading.

I'm not a woman but I have tips in my mind that I can share to you. Every girl wants a romantic places. They love surprises. You can bring her in a place that she dream of. Try to put the ring in the food that you are going to eat. Try to hire a violinists to serenade the place. I guess all women will be happy and will say yes if they really love the man proposing to them.

I guess Dave your mistake is you postponed your trip then all of a sudden you went there and walked alone. Maybe she felt that you don't want to be with her. Girls are like that very sentimental. Try to confront her and ask her forgiveness, you just have to very patient in doing that if you really want to win her back.

Take her to a place where she want to be with you only, order some thing which she likes more and sing a romantic song for her in your own voice and propose her with bottom of your heart. She will never refuse it.

She must be going through a lot of emotional problems. I guess the best thing you can do for her is to be a good friend and not to take advantage of her. She needs someone to talk to and be kind enough to be that someone. A girl can be very emotional and what eases our pain is to have someone to talk to and let things out.

Try to give yourself a chance to be happy with him. Even if your past relationships were not successful, it doesn't mean that you will deprive yourself from finding another love. Getting hurt is part of growing up and you will regret in the end why you didn't try your luck with this guy.

A lot of guys only scratch the surface when attempting to flirt with women. Rapport is just a fancy word for flirting, but with one major difference it's effective. Here are five tips for flirting like:

Tip 1 Understand flirting: Flirting is more than just complimenting a girl. If you want her to return the gesture, you have to create sexual tension. In short, when a woman feels sexual tension towards you, she's attracted, but she's unsure of how you feel. This only heightens her interest in you.

Tip 2 Be cocky, but use humor: The mixture of cockiness with humor is a great technique. The idea behind this approach is to elevate your status within her eyes, thereby making her work harder to gain your approval.

Tip 3 Create a sexually-tense conversation: Your objective when flirting with women is to showcase yourself in a sexual light. You want her to view you as a possible lover, not a friend, and to do so, you must incorporate sex into your conversation.

Tip 4 Touch her: Now that you know some elements for a good conversation, it's time to up the ante. In other words, it's time to touch her.

Tip 5 Talk adventurously: Women crave excitement. They will see that you know how to flirt with women, With that said, the more adventure you've got going on in your life, the more attracted she'll be to you.

Now learn how to talk to a girl you like as it has many benefits. For some guys talking to a girl comes naturally but for some the thought of randomly approaching a girl and trying to start a conversation is nerve-wracking. But as humans, we were not meant to live alone.

Your own level of self-confidence will play a major role on how easy or hard it is to learn how to make a girl like you. If you have low self-confidence, it will show through when you speak. In this case, it is best to work your "inner game" before you go out there and start approaching women.

Here is next tip for guys who want to know how to flirt: make eye contact with the girl you want to talk to, BEFORE you approach. The "eye contact move" signals to her that you have noticed her, and that she's on your radar. Know how to grab an opportunity to get girl friends for yourself and to attract a women - igetgirls.

It's all about you - if you don't have self-confidence then you are in trouble, if you have it, then everything is going to be fine. Maybe first 5-10 minutes could be awkward, but when conversation start everything is going to be simple. Remember - they (girls) are also humans, there is no bad theme to talk!

Make eye contact: Spend a few days catching her gaze every now and then. Don't just stare at her, though; instead, shoot her small glances until your eyes meet and she catches you. When she does, smile slightly and look away after a second. You'll probably blush as well, which is all the better - blushing indicates you're nervous, which is a hint that you like her.

I am really sorry to hear that. It is very tough time for you, if you accept the child, it always hurts you because it is human nature, so this is not fault, but to break relationship is also not a solution.

Now it is very important, how strong your relationship this time. If you think, you can break relationship and can manage to yourself, this will be best solution, because as time you are in relationship, always some issues will create. This is tough decision but one time, after that when time will pass you will feel better, because time is the key for every problem.

Different type of people have different emotion, so to break up decision is may be good for some one, but not for all.

Here are many things are hidden as how is your thinking and emotion, how is your boy friend and how much you can believe him. So you know the best about your boy friend and other things. So you can take better judgement. I will advice one thing more, take some time in your decision and keep every aspect in your mind. One thing more when you take any decision, be bold to take decision.

I hope everything will be good, God is very kind and always with us.

i am writing some tips for you how to talk with girls

Have a cool approach. If you want to have a knockout conversation with the girl, then you have to start strong.

Open with a light topic. There's no need to prepare an elaborate joke or a pick-up line or to do a back-flip to get the girl's attention

Get a feel for the girl's personality. As you start talking to the girl, you should get a sense of what she wants from you.

Make small talk. There's nothing small about small talk. If you're talking to a girl, you can't start off with your deepest, most important desires, or she'll want to run away.

Give the girl a subtle compliment. After you've talked to the girl for a little while, you can let her know you're interested without coming on too strong or scaring her off.

Check out these darling "secret message" envelope necklaces! It looks like you are just giving her a nice piece of jewelry, but inside there is the message that says "Marry Me?" Completely sweet since she'll always have the necklace to wear to remember the moment.

When you do talk to her, pick a time that's convenient. Ask her questions about her interests, her hopes and plans for the future. That way you can share your own and get to know something about each other.

If you have mutual teachers or employment, talk a little about those things.

And of course, your pets. Everyone wants to talk about their dog or cat and the most important thing

3. Compliment her: Tell her she has a beautiful smile or beautiful eyes, but do not say something that is not true. And--don't say them one after the other! (It is highly recommended that you must talk about other things before complimenting or else it feels awkward)

1. Be clean and hygienic Seems simple but it's amazing how many guys don't take it seriously.

2. Have lots and lots and LOTS of confidence.

3. Start a conversation with her.

4. Body Language By far the most powerful weapon you have in your romantic arsenal.

5. Cocky-Funny. If you're dealing with a girl who is resistant to having a conversation.

You've been in the program before, you know all the signs, both good and bad, so you're better able to assess if she'll make a good wife

You don't waste time kidding yourself that this might work if you just give it one more shot.

Experience has made you a realist.

You have more realistic expectations. You know that, yes, you can recover from a heartbreak, and, no, she's not the last woman on earth. You also know that it's better to be alone and happy than in a crappy relationship.

Why would that be weird?
Is this a high school romance where everyone makes a big deal out of a senior dating someone in a lower grade?
In the real world, age really doesn't matter.
If you like someone, you like someone.
If you love someone, you love someone.
Simple as that.
And if the age doesnt matter. as long as you love each other.

You're uncomfortable reactions toward your date and the date itself will be automatically noted by your date. So the best thing I can say to you is always be yourself, be confident and I am pretty sure your date will surely notice that and she will tell herself how confident you are and I think she will call you back sooner.

There are probably some people that no matter, are never content and will cheat or attempt to. In your boyfriend's case it seems he didn't want to end his past relationships so he basically sabotaged them until they ended. This is actually pretty common. It seems like he cheated on his past girlfriends because he wasn't happy.

The concerning part is him saying his last girlfriend was the love of his life. It sounds like he isn't over her yet. If he still feels that way then you should probably consider taking a break for awhile so the two of you can sort your feelings.

I have known a girl since a week. We have been talking every day now. Today we had an interesting conversation in which she talked quite a lot about her family, both fun and sad stories. I wonder if this is a good sign? Is she opening up to me because she feels comfortable or does she see me as a friend?

I also have the impression that she seems to wait for me after work so we can walk to our car together. She also starts some conversations. On the other hand she waits about a day to return mails.

Today just before we parted I told her I really liked our conversation and that I'd like to repeat it. She said: "Me too!" One of these days I will try to speed things up ...

Is it a good sign she elaborated about her family?

Sounds like a good sign she is talking about her family! That usually means you made her feel comfortable which is good! I wouldn't read too much into it. Just try and get her to elaborate more on that and other topics of interest.

It is good sign. She is open to you.

For instance, she rejects a man, she never talk about detail of her family.

Do you like her? If the answer is yes, you can try to ask her out for having a lunch or dinner. Don't only once time, but do it several times. After this, you and her can get into a new relationship.

Women should not be always as innocent princess in fairy tale, wait prince to save her life. Because only you can do that.

If someday you get sick, taking medication yourself, you can do it yourself, right? Do not always wait for someone to come alongside you, cajole care graciously you and that makes the whole world envy as the Korean film. In your life there will be times when you realize you are alone and you have to learn to get used to it.

It will be rained suddenly, do not always stay in one place waiting for someone to pick up and give me hugs tightly. Don't be like that, learning how to prepare yourself everything, do not be so dependent on someone, because without them, what would you do? That's better to prepare your raincoat yourself and go.

For women, come to the gym is not just to spend leisure time, but also to achieve certain goals such as getting a healthy body, slim, and sexy.

However, many women are reluctant to practice to the gym, either because of too many men who dominate the gym, embarrassed, too busy with work and so on, which ultimately makes the women did not get a workout routine at the gym adequate.

Bodyweight training does not require any equipment. You only need a strong will to run. Here are six of the best bodyweight training is useful to train your upper body until your bottom evenly, in order to get a toned body, sexy, at the same ideal.

- 1.push up

It's time to kick him to the curb, if he doesn't set all these implausible demands.

1. He has a complete life, but also he is totally obsessed with all aspects of your existence. You want a man who is like a cyclopedia for all stuff you feel, like and say, who will inform you about your yoga class at the first Tuesday of the month. But, dear, none of those clingy guys!

2. In under 30 seconds he can cook deli-quality pumpkin risotto. Seems like it's true, that a man who can cook is the hottest phenomenon ever!

But don't delude yourself by one of those men who in half a minute will complete this south Spanish dainty. He have to esteem your time; you've got things to do!

Anyway, you'd better to read the whole article

Being human we all will have felt this emotion at some point in our life. Hate can never be held, it's either released or it destroys the heart where it resides. Holding hate, only leaves destruction. This is because hate is anger's second to last step in the march of personal destruction.

Guys, I don't know what to do. We found each other via Twitter, after the year of following each other, we decided to live together. We live together for about a year, but I hate one thing about him: Twitter! All the time he uses twitter. Everywhere. Of course he pays attention to me, but from time to time it drives me crazy, because I ask him to spend Friday evening together, and he just 'Don't you understand? Twitter is my first life!'

Hundreds of subscribers, girls that attracts his attention. I'm jealous and I'm scared that one day my jealousy will destroy everything.

Choose a favorite place--whether it's a fountain, hotel rooftop, monument or national park--that has personal significance to the two of you. Once you're there, ask someone nearby to take a picture of you together, and instead of posing, drop down on one knee. Plan a romantic destination getaway for two. When you're on the plane, use the loudspeaker system (of course, run your plan by the flight attendants first) and propose at 35,000 feet. Fill a favorite room in your home with photo memories from your relationship; you can hang them from balloons or cover the walls with them for a jaw-dropping surprise. Turn off all the lights in your apartment and make a trail of candles that leads to a circle of votives positioned around the ring. Slip the ring on while your soon-to-be fiance is sleeping and then do a romantic morning wake-up call with champagne and strawberries. Build a scene of a snowman proposing, and then tell your soon-to-be-fiance to look outside. When they see the snowman, get down on one knee. Write, "Will you marry me?" on the underside of a kite and take flight on a breezy afternoon. Switch on your imagination!! This is your woman and you should know her preferences! Women are different!

There is a common notion that a couple has no future if the guy is younger than the girl. And I think that we should take into consideration the traditional roles of husbands and wives: husbands were the financial providers and wives were the baby factories. So, according men - older people are generally more established in their careers and thus better able to be providers. According younger women - they have more years in front of them to bear children. Do you know some practical samples when a woman is older than a man? Actually I have only one example and it is not successful;(

really, I face this problem too often. Guys, girls like confident guys. they feel your fear (as a dog, I'm sorry, but there is nothing offensive, dogs are the most charming animals on the Earth, after the pandas, of course) so pull yourself together.

You can think in advance your dialogue, and all the variations of its development. Talk to a friend or sister in a role of that pick up boy. Well, let them laugh at you, I would have laughed as well. But trust me, they will help you. And do not be afraid to ask them, they understand that they do a good work.

Moreover, it is really a deep psychological problem, from which you need to get rid of. And get rid of not only on blogs and forums, but in real life. For example, start to chat via online dating. I like LiveDating.me and LiveDateSearch.com. Communicate for a while, get used to a person, find out the tastes, preferences and disadvantages, and then invited to a real date. dude, it's the 21 century, there are no unsolvable problems.

Regarding dating I can advise the use of the methodology of active dating. You can rent bikes, go skating, something that would fill the awkward pause, if any.

Finally, I would like to say it will be easy to communicate with re RIGHT person and is not important how many dates you had before, agree? You're here because you certainly like someone, aren't you? I still recommend you the article I found on the awesome blog. Now, learn and enjoy: <http://blog.livedating.me/communication-with-the-girl-how-to-overcome-shyness/>

Women in the 21st century may boast that they are truly independent for the first time in our social history. They may tell themselves and each other that they don't need a man. They can even start a family on their own thanks to IVF techniques.

But, while feminists may argue this proves women have finally kicked off the shackles of dependence on men, I'm afraid they're wrong.

In evolutionary terms the huge cultural changes over the past generation amount simply to the merest blink of an eye. It could take another 10,000 years for women to change their thinking. Quite simply, women are preprogrammed to feel dependent on men. Even today women may be richer and enjoy all the trappings of success but, deep down in their psyche, they fear they can't survive alone.

These women may be shooting up the career ladder and earning more than the men in their lives, but when it comes to relationships men still hold the trump card.

Is this your constant practice?

Dude, the more you love women, the less she likes you! If you hope to have serious relationship, give yourself time! girls need this time as well. never start the relationship from kisses, touches, whatever. Moreover, it happens, that girls arrange check to find out whether can the guy stop the developing of the events, if they are not appropriate for the girl. and vise versa girls check themself and their 'strength of will'.

anyway, if you want to gain a chance to talk to her, you shouldn't call her. you have to meet her!

If you don't want to lose him, talk to him openly about his Twitter usage. I'm sure there are times when you're watching tv and not having an intimate conversation where it isn't a big deal. However, when you're out together, it's pretty reasonable to ask that he refrain from using his phone. Is Twitter his livelihood or just his passion. If this is his passion, try to find a way for you two to find balance in his usage. Good luck!

You know, it's quite difficult to respond to such a difficult situation in a few words. Of course, you would be good to meet with the psychologist internally since you continue to live with this pain inside your heart and inside your mind, and the situation will get worse and worse. The solution of the problem is rather long and complicated process. At that, depending on the opinions and behavior of the parent that you describe, you need specialist support in the process of resolving the problems.

In addition, I have many questions, like how was your relationship with the mother before? What do you want to get away from the situation. Freedom? Ward? Help? Independence? Do you want to build a new family?

In any case, it is important to you to learn how to defend these borders and your viewpoint, in advance, of course, precisely define it. Of course, it's good to be good for everyone, but it destroys you as a personality. And after 20 to 30 years, it is more difficult to change. It's better now to talk with a psychologist.
Take care of yourself.

Whatever happens, a woman should always be a woman - well-groomed, caring, gentle and loving. Always, in any circumstances.

It's easy to say ... But children need constant attention, the husband needs attention, housecleaning... Where can I find more time and energy on myself ?!

At all times, women were kept a double whammy - the house and the care of children and family. But we also work on an equal basis with men. The main thing is do not overdo it, remember that drowning in work, you are automatically encroach on their beauty and good humor. Lack of sleep, exhausting hours of work, which gradually replace the cleaning in the house. A good sleep for a woman is the best cosmetics.

Psychologists know that each person is:

- 1) child inside (he has spesific emotions, feelings, sensations),
- 2) * (responsible for the mind, the logic of actions),
- 3) parent (always dictates that "necessary" and that "it is not important").

So, the woman is interesting when her character, behavior, thought and deed prevails by child - playful, cheeky, funny, mysterious and mischievous girl.

And if a woman basically forgot about the emotional, childlike carefree nature and froze her soul and behavior, carring different rules, restrictions, instructions, prohibitions, calculations, morals, common sense, she becomes that bother * and boring parents.

Stay inside the immediate and playful child. Be that attractive, joyful and sunny, which your husband once made a marriage proposal. For the families and relatives always stay gentle, feminine and easy-going and good emotions, generous love and positive.

Good luck!

Of course, each of us has repeatedly faced with situations that seemingly defy logical explanation. But they have completely changed the situation - for example, this occasional meeting of a friend who knowing that you are looking for a job, gives you a phone number of an employee. Although, until the day you have not seen this friend for several months, or even years.

Such examples are myriad. We often think this is just a coincidence and nothing more. However, even in the biographies of famous people, famous personalities are precisely such meetings, allowing them to not only to change lives, but also became the first stepping stone to success and recognition.

Therefore, signs interpreting is a private matter.

mini-skirts is not enough. This external symbols of aggressive sexuality are imposed by mass culture. What should you do?

First, to love your body and learn to feel it. Nothing contributes to this better than sports.

Explore your own body And understand what gives you pleasure.

As often as possible arrange a sensual pleasure Namely, massage, baths with aromatic oils and a variety of beauty treatments, you can do both in salons and at home.

Feel your own femininity That is the weakness and fragility.

Conduct an audit in the wardrobe And to try to minimize the number of jeans, comfortable, but shapeless sweatshirts and other clothes that traditionally considered to be asexual.

To find out whether a girl loves you or not is not so easy! Read these signs that a girl likes you: She initiates communication. If the first few times, when she wrote or called you and you thought, "Finally!", then you get used to it. And the very moment when she begins to call often, and invites you to a meeting, becomes a signal that this girl loves you.

She presents gifts. She will give you gifts in a different way. If before she felt that you must pay for everything only she want to invest her money in you.

Emotional attachments. When she invested emotionally, trying to cheer you up, tell interesting stories, and just wants to make you feel good, I can assume that she is already in love with you.

She takes into account your interests. And she will worry if you do not response her. Finally, she will be inspired by meetings with you.

Good luck

At first, you need to think about your feelings toward him. Then think about whether you want this relationship, in order to not bring inconvenience! You are ready. You just afraid of something and you have to step over this fear. Think twice, because you can lose him. I think you will not feel very nice if he begins to date with one of your friends after your refusal to meet with someone from your friends and acquaintances. You will feel sorry that refused this idea! If you need it, do not miss your chance! - The chance to love and to be beloved!!!!

I am a 54 Year Old Man in good shape and I believe I am considered attractive. I had the good fortune to meet an amazing woman 2 and a half years ago through work. She is a waitress and she is 32 years old. I have made a point to keep in contact by dropping by the bar restaurant every few months for a beer. On this occasion I let her know that I am seeking a divorce. Anyway, after a few brief conversations (she was very busy) I left. I was writing the text to her explaining I left but wanted to say good bye but she was busy .... I hit send as I was walking down the street and she hurried out of the bar and yelled something to me and good bye. I like I should turn around but I didn't. A couple of hours later I noticed that she sent me a text acknowledging my good bye text and I noticed that she added the kissy face emoji. Is this wishful thinking or was she sending me a signal? My heart aches for this woman and it has since I met her.

Woman will never send a man double-digit signals. if she likes a man, she would show it to anyhow, even in the most primitive way.

and that she was in a hurry all the time, this is might be that... she is in a hurry! here the reasons may be different. Maybe she has a child and she has no one to leave him with, or she may feel sick. If she works a waitress, then perhaps she could work elsewhere. it can affect women's nerves, because it is not easy to carry life burden alone on fragile female shoulders. I think you should steal her minute and arrange to meet at a convenient for her time. even for 20 minutes for a cup of coffee in the nearest Starbucks. Feel confidence in your own eyes. perseverance crushes mountains. if this woman ia an impregnable mountain for you ... you know what to do next

I was wondering if maybe that was unfair of me, or I was asking too much. It's just that she literally has no money where as I would be bringing a lot into the marriage, including my house and my own home started business.

Plus she has been going through a lot of financial issues, such as not being able to afford paying her bills on her job, and has asked me to help pay them. Not that's bad or anything. I love her and want to help out, and support her. That's fine. But she had some arguments about how I spend my money a while back, and she wanted me to help her out more. We came to a compromise, but I did feel that maybe having to help her out a lot, was kind of a concern to take into account.

But when it comes to the actual marriage, was asking her to sign one bad, even if I help her out with her money troubles, and do things for her already? Was she perhaps overreacting to throw the relationship and the upcoming marriage away, just like that?

I have known this girl for over 10 years. I have been into her for about 8. But she has always had someone else. Well 2 years ago she became single. We hung out and I had asked her out on a date. She had said no didn't think it was a good time. She went back to him and recently became single. We've been hanging out alot. Lots of laughs and good times. Every time we hang out I think about her like CRAZY for days after. She's truly an amazing girl in my eyes. Smart, drop dead gorgeous, caring, excellent mother, funny and just all around perfect. But I'm afraid to ask her out on a "date" again because don't want to get rejected or make it awkward to hang out but yet I'm going crazy thinking about her all the time. After we hang out is the worst. I look at pictures we took and can't help to just smile. Do I risk it again knowing might be a chance of getting rejected and not hanging out anymore or do I keep my head spinning and just stay in "friendzone"?

move slowly from freindzone to dating, take her to date without letting her know that she is on date, like take her to lunch or dinner alone, just say that you know a good place for a nice chat and take her to dinner...

Over the last couple of weeks my female co worker has started to play fight with me alot more than she usually does. Its escalated so much that staff members are making playful comments about us. A previous co worker used to play fight with me, but not on this scale. It turned out that she liked me. So am i right to assume this co worker is the same?.

She asked one of the managers about relationships in the workplace and who would have to leave if she had one. A male member of staff told me it was directed at me. I jokingly made a comment to my female co worker, one that ive made before in which she found funny, but she got offended by it this time and didnt want to talk to me after that. I thought she may have been joking when asking about workplace relationships. But judging from her reaction she was being serious. Later on that day she began to play fight with me again and started to be overly nice to me, which she usually doesnt do.

My female co worker has been seeing a guy for a few months but refuses to call him her boyfriend when anyone asks if he is. Any help would be appreciated.

If the question is still relevant, or if anyone has a similar issue.. Well, it looks like she likes you and behaves like that to get some attention. I'd say 70% chances is that it is like that. But there are other 30% chances that that's not true, and there could be many other reasons for her to play fight... personal dissatisfaction, or she doesn't like you or something else.

So.. I think what you could do is to clarify that. You could manage to start getting more interactions with her but strictly within working relationship, and observe carefully. I bet after some time it will be obvious for you how she's actually feel about you.

Hope that makes sense.

I don't understand why the dumper gets angry or emotional to see someone they dumped happy. Aren't you suppose to be happy for them or at least show indifference? Whats your story or opinion on this?

Basically she broke up with me 7 month ago for few reasons:

- College
- immaturity on both our parts
- short relationship

Story:

We started talking again 4 month after the breakup. A week later she showed up at our school and saw me just chilling and having a good time at my hangout spot. She started almost posting daily pictures and videos of hangouts with friends, selfies, and other guys at times. I was truly happy for her (she had told me she was feeling depressed) so me thinking that we were on friendly terms shot her a text telling her that i was happy she was feeling good again. Left me on read so i didn't do anything else to bother her again. (i understand enough to know spamming is a behavior people output when they are hurt)

Shot me a text about a month later on Christmas and we started talking again. Always one of the first to view my stories and replied fast to my text (I like to see who views them). 2 weeks later came to the school again. We saw each other but i was working out so i didn't go over to talk to her. Whole process seemed to repeat itself once again.

- block and unblock on social media
- block on snap map and doesn't view my stories
- ignores me and becomes cold to me

I'm not here hoping to know if she wants me back but to understand peoples behavior and why they do this. What is your opinion or story on this subject?

I'm in my early 40s, and have been with a slightly older woman for most of this year. A couple months ago, I took a random look at her FB messenger and saw a bunch of very flirty exchanges, some of which strongly indicated they had been together in some way, or at least wanted to. This is with a mutual friend who is even a bit older, and is married.

I confronted her and she seemed genuinely shocked by the allegation, insisting it was just flirty "fun". She'd told me early on that she was very flirty. This, to me, went beyond that. After a few tough days, I took her at her word, she apologized profusely, realized what she'd done with the chatting was wrong, and promised to stop. We've continued the relationship. But I cannot stop obsessively wondering if anything happened, and, in the back of my mind, wonder if it has indeed stopped. They are still communicating, we're still in the same circle of friends.

Since the initial incident, I have talked with her a few times about my lingering feelings of hurt and confusion. She has been completely open, approachable, and sincere in everything she says to me. We're planning a future together, long-term plans, and I don't for a second doubt her love for me. My main issue with this is, me. I need to find a way to quit obsessing over this, but it's tough when the guy is still a part of her conversations.

I've happened to see a couple of his messages (she's not hiding her phone from me) and even the most innocuous message like, "How are you doing?" sets my brain off. It's ridiculous. So, I'm just hoping to get some help in coping with this so I don't sabotage what is, overall, a very good thing. How can I let go of this, and just trust her?

Thank you.

This is long, sorry!

I (38)have been together with my boyfriend (38) for 11 years. I lost my job and had to look for a new one, after a year of searching I finally found one but in the capital 3 hours away by car.

we decided he would follow me. Shortly after I moved he got a promotion. I was happy and foolishly told him he doesn't need to move immediately, he could stay for a year to get more experience so he could get the same type of work after moving.

We grew apart, then we were on a break according to me, but he understood it as a break up. Many months later I tell him I want to try again, he is unsure and keeps me waiting and hoping for his decision for many months, finally he told he had met someone but it was not serious. I was a mess and took it upon me to try to fix all past problems, I even offered to move back. He eventually said yes and that he had broke it off with the girl he was seeing.

Shortly after I had a very violent trauma in my life, violent loss of brother,I became suicidal and had high anxiety and had to have sick leave. Yet I was really trying to work hard on the relation, to smile, to always be interested in him, supportive, etc., but he was cold, distant, and often got snappy with me. I spent most of that time at his place.

He got somewhat better after a year, then I found out from the girl he had supposedly broken up with that he was still seeing her.

I confronted him, He told me he was trying to break up with her but she wouldn't have it, crying hysterically, he didn't know how to handle the situation. He also had told her that he had gotten back with me still as things were not really over between them, so he felt he hadn't been fair to her, and that he was with her when I sort of insisted we could try again. So she was actually the victim. But that he wanted to be with me, he loved me, yet he understood that maybe I wouldn't want that now.

I truly believe he has a very hard time breaking up with someone. His plan was to drag it out and hope the other person would get tired.

We had a long talk, then we decided we would try to overcome this. He stopped having contact with her.

went back to his city and spent many more months there, but visit my place at the capital every now and then for a short time. But now the problem is I When I try to explain it would be easier if he moved he always gets angry, telling me different non convincing reasons. Recently he said his job was more important because he was working for an international organization while I am not. and that would give us possibility to move abroad.

I told him that with his background it is much easier for him to find a job than me, and he admitted, and in the bigger capital where I am there are many more possibilities than the small city he is in, my bigger city is the capital so there is no shortage of international companies and headquarters and high management/sales positions. In addition I am still in a difficult position with PTSD, anxiety, depression, and horrible guilt and regret. I need my close friends especially since I don't have a family so my friends are my family, and they live in the capital not his city.

I also need to continue see my therapist who have been a lifeline, and my therapist is at the capital and I can't imagine start all over with a new one and going over the traumatic experience I had from the start. Also my work knows about the trauma and have been understanding and patient and willing to accept my long sick leave as well as me starting slowly part time. A new company would not be so understanding, and I would have to work 100% immediately and convince them why I am better than all other applicants and act positive and curious and very engaged, to prove I am worthy of a long term contract. Mentally I am just really nowhere near that strong. I also told him that during the hardest period of my life that I do not wish on any human being, he was cold with me and busy taking romantic trips with his other girlfriend. If he was truly sorry, how about moving to the capital where I have my job and friends and where he probably would even find better opportunities?

No. He made it very clear he won't budge.

Already struggling with a lot after my brother, being alone in his little town every week day till 20:30 in evening when he comes home has not been helping me getting better.

A while ago he was offered a job abroad, a different job (joint venture from his current company) in a different country, and he was prepared to take if I agreed to move with him. So I know that he can leave his town, leave his job, but he adamantly refuses to even discuss looking for possible jobs in my city.

Even my therapist said she does not think it would be possible/advisable for me to take on a new challenge as a new job any time soon, that I should start working for my old company part time and increase slowly, and that when I have worked for at least 6 months full time I might be ready to start look. I mean even practically I doubt very much I can even land a new job now after being on sick leave for almost 2 years, those things can't be hidden from a future employer.

He keeps telling me I had promised I could move, and all what happened since then which make it so much harder, doesn't make him budge.

I would really appreciate some inputs from outside. Am I being unreasonable? Am I asking too much?

TL;DR : had promised my long distance boyfriend I'd move to his town, after a traumatic loss of my lbrother leaving me with PTSD, depression, anxiety , needing my supportive friends in my town, and mentally unable to work full time, which would be required if I am to work in his town, as well as finding out he was unfaithful with his ex in the worst year of my life and was cold and even rude with me, he always gets angry when I tell him it's easier if he moves to me and insists it's his way or no way. Am I, or him, unreasonable? Opinion/advice?

Thanks

I met an Aquarius guy who had a 2 year old daughter at my friends house. His uncle lived next door to her. The first day we met we clicked. We talked about different things and laughed and had great chemistry. We hung out every weekend for the first 3 weeks but barely texted throughout the week. We had sex the 4th time we hung out and I didn't expect nothing to come out of it, I just saw it as a fling. The next day after having sex, I didn't reach out because I knew he was spending time with his daughter. He texted me at 10pm and said "You weren't gonna check on me?" I said I thought about it but didn't because I knew you was with your daughter. After that day we talked on the phone EVERYDAY and it was regular calls, he always wanted to facetime. He initiated all calls and most of the texting. Sometimes I texted but was hesitant to be the first to call because I didn't wanna appear clinging. We spoke about houses, careers, shopping, news, finances, school and past relationships. One thing I noticed is that he always accused me of having other guys but I never said yes or no because we were both single and I didn't feel we needed to disclose that because we should just be focused on each other (sidebar: I wasn't talking to anyone but him). After a month and a half of talking/hanging out, I was with my bestfriend working out and he called me, I didn't answer because we were using my phone for workouts. I called him back 30 mins later and he declined the call so I assumed he was busy. All night he posted on social media, so I texted him and asked him why he didn't call me back and he told me I should've picked up when he called. I told him I was busy and he said I should've picked up or texted him saying that. That rubbed me the wrong way but we had a conversation about it the next day and smoothed things over. A week later he put me on facetime with his daughter twice and we were chatting and it made me think "does he like me? Or is he doing that with everyone?" but I just went with it. A couple of days later, on a Wednesday, we were talking and he said he wanted to see me on Friday. I said sure we can have a movie night with food. He said "I didn't choose Saturday because I know you have your other boos" I said I don't know why you are saying that, if you want to ask me if I'm talking to other guys then ask. He said no I'm not gonna ask cause I don't want to get my feelings involved. That upset me because what were we doing? So I said good night I'll talk to you tomorrow. Thursday comes I didn't hear from him and I didn't reach out. Friday comes and I still didn't hear from him so around 7pm I call him saying I wanted to check on him and wanted to know if we were still hanging out. He said "why didn't you call me yesterday" I said why didn't you call me? I told him that I know he had his daughter yesterday and took her to the pool so I was giving him space. He said "no you were with her Thursday boo" I told him he needs to stop with these comments. And he said, I'll play my role. I then asked him "if I didn't call him would he ever have called me" and he said no. I told him that's immature and he told me to hush. So I said, I'll call you later and he hung up on me. 1 hour later I texted him telling him that I'll let the hang up slide because I could tell he was upset for no reason but I'd still like to see him. The text didn't go through. I called and HE BLOCKED ME. I saw he was posting on Social media and DMed and saying "idk what your issue is but I'm going to give you a chance to fix things between us or we don't have to talk anymore". He said "give me a chance? You're bugging". A day passed by and I was still blocked so I DMed him again and said "can you unblock me so we can talk" and he read the message and didn't respond. Another day passed by and I started getting block calls, I didn't answer but I knew in my heart it was him. Then later that night I got a text from him asking "Whats going on at the neighbors house?" because my friend lived next door to his uncle. I ignored it. A week later he texted me "WOW" 3 hours later I responded and said "wow what?" and he never answered. It's been 2 days of no response.

What is going on with him? Why is he acting like that? Should I reach out to him again or just forget him?

Just be yourself and don't be pushy. Try to show her that you're interested in her. Even if she refuses don't worry, it means that she isn't for you. The main thing is not to be afraid to take the first step.

Hi I meant this guy last month and we went out to eat. We were just hanging out and having conversation. I am 49 yrs old woman and he is 33yrs old. We had a good time. Anyway I had sex with him after we went out that day to eat. We have had sex a few times now. I have started to get feelings for him. He has made comments lately about that he is happy that I am into him. He doesn't want me having sex with anyone else. After the first time we were together he told me that I satisfied him and not to worry about him having sex with anyone else. Last time we were together he was more passionate about the sex. Played love songs on his guitar but made the comment under his breath about it being love songs and I didn't realize it. My problem is the last time we were together it was really good the kissing and sex. I heard him say under his breath that we could have something but I smoke cigarettes and also our age difference he was thinking out loud. He has smoked a cigarette with me a couple of times even though he doesn't like it. And this last time he kept asking me for cigarettes too. But then he was saying he didn't want anything serious to me and did not want to date because he thinks you can't ever please a woman. He said we were bonding. Not sure what to think but I have feeling for him. We have a lot in common too in our beliefs and views about life. Is he interested in more than sex and fun with me? Maybe I could change his mind?
