One thing you should understand that women have an image of an ideal man in their mind, and they are naturally drawn toward guys that fit that archetype. However, even if you're not her "type" you can still connect with a woman by appealing to her emotions. All you need to do is make her feel safe and comfortable when she's with you.

Once you've gotten that far, you will stick in her mind and she'll want to spend more time with you. By now, you're probably wondering how exactly you make this emotional connection and get her to fall for you. read on to find the three 3 key tactics you'll need to use to get any woman you desire Strategy #1 "Be Bold". Be daring and put yourself out there with confidence and character. You must banish all fear of rejection and be ready to approach even the most gorgeous women in the place without hesitation.

Strategy #2 "Be A Peacock". If you have good qualities, don't be afraid to show them off. Even if you don't have anything all that special, that doesn't mean you can't be confident. I'm not suggesting you have to walk around shirtless to show off your abs. Rather, just be confident in yourself and you'll make a great first impression on any girl.

Strategy #3 "Use Fractionation". Once you've started to make a small connection with a woman, you can try using the mesmerizing technique known as fractionation. You probably have never heard of it, but it basically just involves chatting with a woman and hypnotizing her to feel greater attraction for you.
