
Subject: I told her I just want to be friends but I don't
Posted by salben on Fri, 05 Aug 2016 07:32:43 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Hey everyone,

So I got myself in a tricky situation. I am new to dating. I told the girl that I just want to be friends. I called her on the phone. She was grateful that I did and accepted my decision. The truth is, I only said it because I thought that it is what she feels. And in order to not get hurt from her saying that SHE just wants to be friends, I did it. BUT when I talked to her on the phone she actually didn't feel the way I thought she felt, she actually wanted a relationship with me. So I want to reverse the process and don't know how to do it!

I really like this girl a ton, a little too much to be honest. We dated 3 times already. The 3rd time she came over to my place. We didn't have sex even though she clearly gave me signs to initiate it, but I thought it was too early and would ruin the relationship.

I would appreciate your help

Subject: Re: I told her I just want to be friends but I don't
Posted by smith on Wed, 10 Aug 2016 10:47:04 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Great, you are fab... Why do you thin that having sex will ruin your relationship. But it actually increases your bond in your relationship. I think you are in love actually, so decide it by yourself weather you want to be in long term or short term relationship.

Subject: Re: I told her I just want to be friends but I don't
Posted by salben on Wed, 10 Aug 2016 13:42:47 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

I don't know some stupid studies showed that having sex later would increase the probability of a long term relationship. Any idea on how to approach the situation thou?

Subject: Re: I told her I just want to be friends but I don't
Posted by stacy on Tue, 16 Aug 2016 06:15:46 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Just remember whatever you do, do it with mutual consent, sex can be helpful for the relationship if both the partners are willing to do that, otherwise it may also ruin the whole situation. Since you are new in a relationship, its better to take the advice of a dating coach, I advice you to go for elenasmodels.com dating coach advice, she is highly experienced and really good, it would greatly help you to improve your love life.

Subject: Re: I told her I just want to be friends but I don't
Posted by GerardGold on Tue, 13 Sep 2016 11:36:08 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Salben, from the point of view of a girl she would be disappointed if she was into you and you pulled back. The faster you admit to her that you actually were feeling strongly about her but simply were too shy to admit it, the better.

Strong relationships don't depend on the date number when you had sex but mostly on how strongly want to be together. Quite often in a research about dating they cannot say what leads to what: What was first, the chicken or the egg. Less than a half of research that is published can ever be replicated, i.e. other people get to the same results by asking the same questions. So, one research, especially in a foreign country (or even in a different city than yours), cannot predict what will happen in your particular case. To be universal, results have to be independent on the country and location, and dating surveys are highly dependent on where and how the results were obtained.

Admitting your vulnerability, the fact that you are really into her, helps to build a more trusting relationship, especially if a girl showed her interested clearly.

Subject: Re: I told her I just want to be friends but I don't
Posted by Samarth on Fri, 14 Oct 2016 05:17:33 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Its easy, just go with her on coffee dates, or walk in a park for a few times, and tell her that you have started feeling for her, she will accept it for sure...

Subject: Re: I told her I just want to be friends but I don't
Posted by relationshiptips on Fri, 23 Jun 2017 11:12:36 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

@salben

you don't need to do anything if you are confident that she loves you. Just wait for special moment to propose her, which also surprise her and happy too.

Subject: Re: I told her I just want to be friends but I don't
Posted by Andrea on Thu, 01 Feb 2018 07:59:27 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Try to make show her that you feel more than just friends. Keep your communication line open, treat her on a date and then, when you feel that it's time to say what you feel then, tell her.
